A social work assessment is a report written by a social worker evaluating a client's educational, mental health, substance abuse, or occupational needs. You will need to interview the client and other significant parties knowledgeable about the client's background and current needs. The final written report includes goals the client should complete to resolve his or her problem and the treatment or assistance the social worker recommends to help the client accomplish these goals.

Social Assessment in Health Promotion Planning

SOCIAL ASSESSMENT IN HEALTH PROMOTION PLANNING. Within the context of health promotion, social assessment refers to a process in which objective and subjective information are used to identify high-priority problems, or assets, that affect the common good. Ideally, this process will use a variety of social, economic, and quality-of-life indicators, including the perceptions and concerns of representatives from the area or community being assessed.
