The purpose of this essay has been to give a balanced view of evolution by showing how big a role randomness plays. I think randomness is necessary to counteract the tremendous power of natural selection that to some degree blinds our vision. Selection is the supreme mechanism that brings order out of chaos, and for that reason it is quite rightly foremost in our minds in all matters.

Chance versus Randomness (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy)

Randomness, as we ordinarily think of it, exists when some outcomes occur haphazardly, unpredictably, or by chance. These latter three notions are all distinct, but all have some kind of close connection to probability.
